

Buying options

Editions

There are 6 editions.

The classic 'bread bin' in 3 versions. And the 'slimline' in 3 versions.

The difference between editions

Besides the esthetics and the LED-lights are all Commodore 64 Ultimate editions exactly the same from a technical point of view and included materials.

Breadbin

The original version of the C64 as it was introduced in 1982.

Basic

The 'Basic beige' version with the classic look. This is also the most affordable version. USD$350

Starlight

The 'Starlight Edition'. It has a transparent case and PCB with built in LED-lights with software control options for those lights. It is mid priced. USD$400

Founders

The 'Founders edition'. It also has a transparent case and PCB with built in LED-lights. But it has a distinctive gold-yellow colour and a golden coloured keyboard. This is the most expensive version.

USD$550

Slimline

The version with the look of the updated version of the c64 Commodore released in 1986 as the '64C', with the more modern looking case.

Basic Beige

Starlight

Founders

Note: listed prices are without value added tax, shipping and potential import tax. Depending of the destination the final price can differ significantly. When ordering you get a better idea of the final price.

How to buy

The only place to buy them at present is via the website of Commodore:

- <https://commodore.net/store/commodore64/> ⇐ Buy Commodore 64 Ultimate

Sales figures

Some very nice statistics about the sale of the Commodore 64 Ultimate

- https://slapsoft.com/c64\_sales.html

fundamentals

From:

<https://c64u.org/dokuwiki/> - C64 Ultimate Wiki

Permanent link:

https://c64u.org/dokuwiki/buying\_a\_commodore\_64u?rev=1786640157

Last update: 2026/08/13 16:55

